

ARMY BOARD NAMED TO INVESTIGATE EXPLOSION

EMPLOYMENT ON INCREASE STATE REPORTS SHOW

30,000 More Workers on Rolls Than Year Ago Figures State.

Chicago, July 13.—(AP)—Factories of Illinois are paying wages to 30,000 more workers this summer, than were paid last summer, the State Department of Labor monthly industrial review for June, said today.

"June has come and gone without reduction in the intensity of industrial activity in Illinois," the review said. "The onset of mid-summer dullness at factories was so mild that the aggregate number of employees was reduced scarcely at all. In some lines expansion is going on, although as a general thing the increases rose 2.5 per cent in the thirty day period."

"New industrial enterprises are still being launched with confidence from one end of the State to the other. Aside from the numerous new businesses in Chicago, there were announced in June: A factory to produce household utensils at Beardstown; one to manufacture dishwashers at Belleville, where also a hosiery mill closed for some time is to be reopened; railroad shops at Blufford; an auto accessory plant at Charleston, a cannery at DeKalb; a stove factory at Des Plaines, a firm making batteries at Hampshire; a can factory at East St. Louis, a large cement plant at La Salle, an oil refinery at Robinson, a structural steel plant at Ottawa; a dairy at River Forest, a large addition to a machinery plant in Rockford and a tractor plant in Springfield.

Food Group Prospers
"Increasing receipts brought more employment to employees at the slaughtering and meat packing plants. Nearly all other industries of the food group also offered increased employment. With the weather growing warmer, ice and ice cream factories afforded the most increases—aside from canneries which had a third more employees in June than in May, and soon will be at their seasons peak.

"The men's clothing industry also experienced considerable expansion in the process of producing Fall models. This industry started the summer expansion with but little more than half of the workers they had in 1925, but still with larger forces than they had a year ago. In other industries making men's wear there was a rule expansion. Just the opposite was true among factories producing women's goods. Women's clothing factories laid off ten per cent; milliners, twenty-three per cent. Laundries had two per cent fewer employees than they had in May.

Papers Not So Good
"Another seasonal increase was in the job printing plants. At the mid-year, they reversed the downward trend which has prevailed since the year end rush and extended into February by adding 3.4 percent to their employees. Other industries in this group with the exception of bookbinding afforded declining employment. Thus, newspaper plants laid off 4.2 per cent of their help in June.

"Boot and shoe factory employment was on the upgrade, the increase amounting to 4.5 per cent. This seasonal gain more than compensated for losses among other industries in the fur and leather goods group and was responsible for an expansion in employment of three per cent for the entire group.

There was improvement in the coal mines during the month. Although the employment reports show some distribution of work among the mines with companies closing some of their mines while reopening other, production definitely increased and is ahead of a year ago or two years ago. The U. S. Bureau of Mines reported for the week of June 19, 1,002,000 tons of bituminous coal produced in the state. This compares with 924,000 tons for the same week last year and 565,000 tons for the comparable period in 1924.

The reports for the Illinois free employment offices show that the placement record gain is very much ahead of last year. The offices maintained in thirteen of the principal cities.

DISMEMBERED BODY OF YOUNG WOMAN FOUND IN PACKAGES IN BOSTON CEMETERY THIS MORN

Within Short Distance of Heavily Traveled Highway.

Boston, Mass., July 13.—(AP)—The body of a woman, dismembered and carefully tied up in three packages, was found this morning in the rear of Mount Hope Cemetery in the outlying Mattapan district of the city. Torrio Jenney, a laborer on the nearby state farm, discovered it while on his way to work. The spot where the body was found is about 500 feet from Waik Hill Street, a thoroughfare in almost constant use. The packages apparently were placed there some time during the night, police said.

Medical Examiner O'Leary said that it appeared the girl had been the victim of an illegal operation. This theory was strengthened, he said, by the fact that the work of dismembering the body had been skillfully done.

Reports of missing girls throughout New England were being run down by police and finger prints on the boxes in which the body was found were taken.

The girl probably was between 22 and 25 years old and had dark bobbed hair.

PRESIDENT HAS NO PLANS FOR COMING FIGHTS

Stories of His Taking Part in Campaign Suppositions.

Paul Smith's, N. Y., July 13.—(AP)—President Coolidge has no plan at present for participation in the congressional campaign this fall and in the absence of any announcement by him any references to the subject that may appear in print should be regarded as mere supposition.

The position of the President, in the face of various published reports as to his political plans since he came to the Adirondacks, was made clear at the executive offices today. He came to the offices from White Pine camp to attend to a number of government matters and to receive the newspaper correspondents for the second time since his arrival in the mountains. Whether he will enter the campaign actively or perhaps only of the extent of making a few addresses late in the campaign has been a question on which no light has been thrown definitely, either here or in Washington. For the present, Mr. Coolidge has contented himself with a policy of contests are yet to be disposed of and hands off inasmuch as the primary, his apparent view is that the executive should not inject himself into purely party fights.

Railroads Seek Rate Increase on Sand, Etc.

Chicago, July 13.—(AP)—The Interstate, Indiana and Illinois Commerce Commission today began a joint three day hearing on a railroad proposal to increase rates on sand, gravel and crushed stone in the Chicago switching district. Burton Fuller, I. C. C. examiner, presided.

The railroads, led by the New York Central lines, contend that the present rate which is between 40 and 50c a ton for a single or joint line haul, compels them to carry at a loss. They want an increase to 60c a ton for a single line haul and 80c for a joint line haul.

The increase would lift the rates near those prevailing in the first zone outside Chicago, 65c for a single line haul and 95c for a joint line haul.

ROCKEFELLER REFUSES TO LET PHOTOGRAPHERS TAKE PICTURE OF HIS THREE SONS AND WIFE

Portland, Oregon, July 13.—(AP)—Believing that newspaper photographs may cause his sons to get false notions of their own importance, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., has refused to allow pictures to be taken of his three sons.

Arriving here yesterday on a western tour, Mr. Rockefeller was greeted by a group of newspaper men and photographers as he stepped from his special car.

"All right boys, what'll you have?" he asked.

One of the cameramen suggested a family picture of Mr. and Mrs. Rockefeller and their three sons.

ELKS' CHARITY BUDGET IN YEAR WAS $2,407,048

Assets of $95,000,000 Reported by Members at Grand Lodge

Chicago, July 13.—(AP)—"Bill" from Cordova, Alaska, shook hands today with "Bill" from the Panama Canal Zone, and "Bills" from Hawaii and California, mingled with "Bills" from Maine and Florida—all brothers under the purple and white hat bands, as Chicago was transformed into the metropolis of Elklod. To the tune of 100 bands "the best people on earth" had moved into the city to be welcomed at a public meeting last night and appeared today for an extensive program of amusements and session of the grand lodge, at which a new Exalted Ruler will be named. Many delegates were habitues of their native communities, as they swarmed the streets. More than 100 Texas cowboys in woolly chaps, red shirts, four gallon sombreros and barrelled six shooters added a dash of color to staid Michigan Avenue.

They were the representatives of the 26,704 members of the order, the total named in annual reports made public today. These reports also showed that the fraternity had assets of $95,000,000 and had spent $2,407,048 for charity in the last year.

Aside from cash contributions to worthy and needy persons, community welfare committee showed that employment had been found for 5,647 unemployed during the year and 1,585 aliens were assisted in becoming naturalized citizens.

ILLINOIS' CORN 75 PER CENT OF NORMAL, REPORT

Acreage About One Per Cent Greater Than It Was in '25.

Springfield, Ill., July 13.—(AP)—Acreage in corn in Illinois this season is estimated at one percent greater than last year, by a joint report of the federal and state departments of Agriculture issued today.

"State acreage," the report said, "is placed at 9,332,000 acres compared with 9,240,000 acres last year and 9,000,000 the average for the past five years. The condition of corn is reported at 75 percent of normal or below average. This compares with 93 percent reported a year ago and the ten year average of 85 percent."

"The indicated crop prospect based on this condition is 267,958,000 bushels compared with the state production of 388,080,000 bushels last year and the past five year average of 327,820,000 bushels."

"Generally speaking Illinois corn is ten days to two weeks late due chiefly to the backward season. Growth varies greatly, ranging from a few inches to over three feet high in the different fields and is often noticeable uneven in the same field. June was adversely cool for good corn growth. Insects, especially grubs and cut worms have caused more replanting than usual, especially on the 1925 clover ground."

"Some unevenness could be accounted for by wind or dust storms in northeastern counties cutting back corn on high lands. Excessive rains have been a damaging factor in low spots in the northwest. The wide variation in growth in the south is due mostly to extremely dry conditions for the past two months with considerable late planting. Conditions improve northward through the central and northern areas and reporters comment frequently, 'Corn stands are fair to good but late.'"

MISHAP MAKES DAUGHTER SOLE HEIR TO $31000

Peoria, Ill., July 13.—(AP)—Mrs. Margaret Bell is today the sole heir to the $31,000 estate of her mother, Mrs. Christina Elser Gill, 89, as the result of an automobile accident which cost the lives of Mrs. Gill and her husband, the man with whom Mrs. Bell waged a court battle to keep the estate. Mrs. Bell had charged that Gill, age 76, who lived with Mrs. Elser, was trying to gain possession of the estate and the court appointed a conservator for the mother over her opposition. The conservator was later removed when Mrs. Elser and Gill were married. The hearing showed that Mrs. Elser and her daughter had not been on friendly terms for 20 years and it appeared likely after the marriage that she had lost all claim to the estate. Then on July 4, Mrs. Gill and her new husband were killed in an automobile accident between Peoria and Pekin.

The upper picture shows what remains of one of the ammunition storehouses at the army arsenal, Picatinny, N. J., after it had been bombarded by shells from the naval arsenal at Lake Denmark several miles away. The naval arsenal, fired by a bolt of lightning, showered huge shells over many miles of territory, causing $100,000,000 damage and taking many lives. Below is a view of the burning arsenal reservation, taken 24 hours after the disaster, with flames still raging almost unchecked.

GRAIN PRICES SOARED UNDER BUYING ORDERS

Wheat Pulled Corn as It Mounted During Day's Trading.

Chicago, July 13.—(AP)—Waves of buying hoisted the wheat market in good earnest today. Prices went up as much as 6 1/2c a bushel. Sept. delivery touching 1.43 1/4. The principal reason was a Canadian government report that was taken here as definitely exploding theories of a large North American crop this season.

The wheat market closed excited at nearly the topmost level reached and with all future deliveries showing the greatest advance in many weeks. In the late trading especially fluctuations were of a wild character, influenced by reports that a big section of the Canadian crop was badly burned out. Final prices for the day in the wheat market were 4 1/4c to 6 1/4c above yesterday's finish. Last quotations today being 1.43 1/4c for July and 1.42 1/2c for September delivery.

Charge Missionary Branded Boy With Acid on His Cheek

Tokyo, July 13.—(AP)—The Department of Justice is officially advised that charges of cruelty have been filed by the Korean authorities against Dr. C. A. Haysmeyer, an American medical missionary stationed at Pingyang, for branding a small Korean boy on both cheeks with acid.

Dr. Haysmeyer, according to a report filed by Consul General Miller at Seoul to the American ambassador at Tokyo, painted the lad's cheeks with acid after he had been caught stealing apples from an orchard. When Korean papers made the incident public after the boy left school because of the ridicule to which the branding subjected him, a wave of indignation swept the country. The missionary made a public apology and paid the mother of the boy damages equivalent to $210. The missionary said he did not think the acid would make permanent marks.

FARMERS URGED TO GIVE FULL SUPPORT TO PROPOSED CHANGE IN ILLINOIS REVENUE STATUTE

Head of I. A. A. Writes in Support of Tax Law Amendments.

Springfield, Ill., July 13.—(AP)—Containing that inequalities under the present system of taxes cannot be corrected because of constitutional limitations, Earl C. Smith, president of the Illinois Agricultural Association, is urging the farmers of the state to support the proposed revenue amendment in November.

In a series of articles in current farm bureau organs, Smith outlines a number of reasons for supporting the amendment.

"Real estate," he says, "although less than one-half of the property in the state is now paying about 80 percent of the taxes. Tangible property, probably not more than one-half of the state property, is paying 92 percent of the taxes for most purposes."

"A minority of the people of the state are now paying all of the taxes for most purposes. Owners of some kinds of property add their taxes to the prices of their services or products. Owners of land cannot shift their taxes to others to pay."

"Owners of mortgaged property are now paying double or multiple taxes. They pay taxes not only on their equities but also on the value of the mortgages."

"Lack of personal interest on the part of most people in the economical and efficient use of tax monies and their belief that they are paying no taxes of any kind, promote extravagance and a rapid increase of deferred taxes in the form of bonded indebtedness."

"Taxes are rapidly increasing partly because of the increase in population but chiefly because of the demand for new forms of service. Under the present constitutional limitations none of the inequalities can be fairly or properly corrected."

Several hundred soldiers and marines were on duty about the Lake Denmark naval depot in search for additional victims of exploding ammunition, which, after a flash of lightning, Saturday afternoon reduced the depot and miles of surrounding country to ruin.

From a No Man's Land due to an act of nature there had been brought today parts of 17 bodies, three of which were identified through records sent to Washington. Shifting winds which took exploding flames toward unexploded magazines, caused stoppage of explorations yesterday afternoon by order of Secretary of the Navy Wilbur, who visited the devastated area.

Afternoon in Woods and Catfish Supper Are Planned.

A special committee from the Dixon Kiwanis club met this afternoon and launched plans for a Kiwanis day in the woods to be held in the near future, the exact date to be announced later. It is planned to spend an afternoon and part of an evening in an ideally located section within a short distance from the city, where an extensive program of sports will be provided.

The committee which is composed of Ray S. Kline, Dr. L. R. Trowbridge, P. G. Eno and E. L. Fulmer, have the program in the stages of final preparation. The celebration will be a stag party, not only plenty of entertainment and a full program of sports, but a feature will be a cat fish supper, with all of the accessories. The location of the celebration is being kept a secret and the affair will be held on a Thursday afternoon during the closed season, in order that every member of the club may attend.

At the regular meeting of the club today, Earl Buck and Isadore Eichler were elected with Webster Poole, F. G. Eno and E. L. Fulmer as alternates. He attended the annual convention of the Eastern Iowa-Illinois district to be held in Davenport in December. The club cast a unanimous vote endorsing the Bible conference to be held at the Assembly park next month.

Acknowledging his elevation to the post of Grand Exalted Ruler, Grakelow urged that "every Elks lodge be directly known as the civic center of its community, the one great meeting place where all patriotic and charitable activities converge and where the unfortunate comes for succor."

A MAN'S PETITION—

Before unto the crowding mart I fare,
Hear thou, O Lord of men, my morning prayer.

When on all sides insistent problems throng,
Keep me serene of soul, unsmirched of wrong.

If thou to me some heavy task entrust,
In wisdom guide me, make me firm and just.

If thou this day my work with increase bless,
Increase the more my wealth of thankfulness.

Should loss befall, and doubt, and panic fear,
What else may go, keep thou my faith still clear.

Grant me the body's health, the clean, bright mind,
And to my fellows make me very kind.

—Frederick Moxan.

Enjoyable Surprise Party and Shower

A most enjoyable surprise party and shower was given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Horrell at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Hoyle of Route 5, Dixon, Saturday evening at 8:30 o'clock.

While the newlyweds and their niece, Miss Terver Hoyle, were attending the first show at the Dixon Theatre, a company of seventy-five friends and relatives assembled at the home of Mrs. Horrell's sister, Mrs. Hoyle, on Route 5, and telephoned them to come home at once, which they did, and when they arrived at the house, they were greeted by the entire assemblage with noise making instruments, such as horns, bells, whistles, rattles, etc.

The evening was spent in dancing, including two dance features, the "Charleston," by Misses Lucille Collins and Helen Taylor, and a waltz, "Comin' Thru the Rye," by Miss Marie Heft and Grover Hoberg, and a short but beautiful reading by C. H. Preble, which he also composed. The music was furnished by Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Henry.

Later in the evening, refreshments which were brought by the many friends and relatives, were served, and everyone served abundantly, including candy and cigars.

Last but not least, was the presentation of the many beautiful and valuable gifts, including a breakfast set from the superintendent, assistant superintendent, foremen, foreladies, assistant foreladies, and assistant foremen, the fitting department girls, the office girls, and receiving and shipping clerks of the Brown Shoe Factory where Mr. Horrell is employed, as cashier and office manager, and Mrs. Horrell was employed before her marriage. There were also many personal gifts of silverware, china ware, glass ware, table sets, vases, etc.

The entire evening was spent in lively merrymaking and all departed for home happy, and expressing themselves as having had a wonderful time and wishing the newlyweds a most enjoyable and happy future.

London, July 12.—(AP)—"Blondes prefer gentlemen" a skit based on "Anita Loos' novel, and "Grand Giggle," fashioned after a performance of the Grand Guignol in Paris, were two of the most amusing features of the annual theatrical garden party given in Chelsea for the benefit of the Actors Orphan Fund.

Americans were numerous among both actors and visitors. employment bureau and a separate department of education in the national government.

FRIENDLESS ROYALTY.

The national referendum on confiscation of the property of German royal families failed to carry. So far, the Hohenzollerns and the kingly and princely families of the various states formerly making up the German empire, are safe, and lucky. But anyone who wants to grasp what is going on in Germany should note the menace to German royalty in that same referendum.

The confiscation proposal failed merely because not enough people voted. A majority of registered voters was required. Less than half voted. But the actual vote was nearly 15,000,000 for confiscation to only 542,000 against. That is about 25 to 1 against the kings and princes, in favor of a democratic proposal so radical that with all our traditional opposition to monarchy, it shocked American opinion.

If that vote comes anywhere near representing public opinion in Germany, it is clear that the Germans are done with kings, and all the monarchist talk and plots are as vain in Germany as in France.

Moreover, the vote is not necessarily final. There may be other referendums along the same line; and if those anti-monarchist leaders get out the vote, royal Germans may yet lose their estates.

Even so, they will be better off than royal French families when France went republican. The French lost their heads.

CASTLE HOTELS.

They are modernizing castles in Sweden to use as summer hotels for American tourists. Travel there is said to be growing so rapidly that this has become necessary. Other old world countries may adopt the practice.

It seems like a pretty good use for some of the old castles. There are American tourists who like to keep to the most up-to-date hotels with all their conveniences and luxuries, but there are others who like to get off the beaten path and who would stand a few inconveniences for a little real atmosphere and a chance to see and enjoy the native scenes and customs of the countries they visit. This latter group ought to take to the castle hotels with much satisfaction.

It may mean, too, the preservation of some interesting old castles, which otherwise would have to become merely ruins.

INTUITION.

Women are inquisitive. They simply will not believe a thing unless it is true. Not unless they want to believe it. Consider one Chicago girl. A man gave her the ring. The stone was almost large enough to be an imitation. He spent money freely.

She thought she loved him. One night they were at a road house. "Marry me now," said he. "No," said the girl. "Let's wait. If you love me enough to live with me always, you love me enough to wait a few months."

It was her intuition. Later the police learned he had three wives.

Anthracite operators and miners are reported doing well. The price was not raised after the strike, but the usual reduction of 50 cents a ton to stimulate production was not offered.

Smile and the world smiles with you. Frown and the world laughs at you.

Never throw away a day until you get a new one.

You can't double your face value by being two-faced.

The new spring hat may be straw, but its price is felt.

If you kill enough time it will kill you.

If you care to choose the lesser of two evils, take up working instead of loafing.

Government expenses may be pruned by pulling off a few plums.

Only six more months in which to pay your Christmas bills.

Taxes have been cut almost everywhere now, except at the tax collector's office.

Work hard and become a prominent citizen so everyone will have to laugh at the jokes you tell.

The modern girl is considered a good wife if she can put up with her husband's cooking.

Snoring is dangerous. It lets the burglars know you are asleep.

Any car may be handled fairly easily from the steering wheel, but not from the front bumper.

We have learned a couple of things lately. You can't park by a fire plug or on top of a phone pole.

RE-DISCOVERING ILLINOIS

By LESTER B. CROSBY

Illinois Chamber of Commerce

Macoupin is an Indian word meaning article. Oldtimers down in Macoupin county appear to pronounce it as if spelled Ma-coop-in. Wild articles used to grow in abundance along a creek flowing in a westerly direction into the Illinois river not far from its mouth. This became known as Macoupin creek.

When time came to carve a county out of the virgin land hereabouts, rich and fertile, the pioneers called it Macoupin county. Carlinville is the county seat. It is named in honor of Thomas Carlin, one of the first governors of Illinois. Carlinville claims a distinction—it is the only Carlinville in the world.

There are facts of interest in Carlinville with its 5000 people. It is the home of Blackburn University. There is no other university or college just like it in all America. It is a school conducted along unique ideas. We find also in Carlinville a court house that half a century ago plunged Macoupin county into an opera bouffe scandal. That amazing court house, built back in 1867, cost $1,300,000 and in those times, a few thousand dollars meant a fortune. Carlinville today seems prosperous—but there are more than 100 empty houses in the city. I shall tell about these things.

What strikes one most about Blackburn University is the fact that it is "a 100 per cent self-help school." That means that every student is employed, working for pay. There is no other way there. To enter school one has to pass certain requirements and the first among them is that the student must be in need of this sort of school. He must be minus in riches.

The school year was just coming to an end when I visited Blackburn. The most of the 197 young men and young women were preparing to return to their homes. Generally they live in the dormitories and board in the dining hall. This dining hall is managed by students; one student head cook, others assistant cooks.

Students operate the laundry, do all the work there. Students manage all the business about the school, do the buying, the selling—for there is selling from the school farm. The newer buildings at the school, including the girls' dormitory, were built by the students. They have just completed a new president's house.

I was told that students did everything in erecting these buildings with the exception of the actual laying of the brick. Each year finds students in Blackburn from many lands—as far away as China, India and Persia. The fame of Blackburn has traveled. I was told that room, board and tuition costs, on the average, $160 a year in money. Work accounts for the rest. Certain wealthy persons interested in these young people who help themselves each year give scholarships. Boys go to schools like Princeton; girls sometimes, to Mt. Holyoke or other famous schools. I asked how these boys and girls, courageous enough to work themselves through Blackburn, fared in the later rankings in the bigger, softer schools.

"They're among the best students there," was the reply. They take honors regularly.

Blackburn, the school that is operated by paid students, rather than for paying students, I think you will agree, is unique.

I mentioned Macoupin county's $1,300,000 court house, the one that once had a $90,000 fence around it. The story is a bit of unappreciated comedy. Residents of Macoupin county still smile painfully when it is mentioned. They were forty-three years paying for it and forty-three years it is a long time.

When charges started to fly and indictments were demanded, the builders of this surprising edifice, raised in the name of justice, fled. The most of them came back—in time. Nothing was ever proved against them. Prosecutors collapsed. A patriarch amid the splendor confided to me:

"They just went hog-wild spending money."

Ornate, you ask. Yes, and then some. If you ever get into the vicinity of Carlinville by all means visit this court house, relic of the spending orgy. Its great sandstone columns are somewhat weathered now.

Its mural decorations are old-timey. Its tiles are worn and loose ones clink under foot.

Scrollwork and ornamentation in metal is everywhere. There's much that the modern architect would call "gingerbread" about it. Doors are massive and there is too much of everything and everything is too big. Each chandelier in the big court room cost several hundred dollars, I was told. Even the glass in the windows might have been made for a cathedral.

Quaker Oats
"stands by"
you through the morning

Has the "bulk," too,
that makes laxatives
seldom needed

THOUSANDS have unenergetic mornings because they start the day with breakfasts that lack in certain important food elements.

To feel right, you must have a well-balanced, complete breakfast ration. At most other meals—lunch and dinner—you get it. But breakfast is a hurried meal, often badly chosen.

Thus Quaker Oats, containing 16% protein, food's great tissue builder, 58% carbohydrate, its great energy element, plus all-important vitamins and the "bulk" that makes laxatives seldom needed, is the dietetic urge of the world today.

It is food that "stands by" you through the morning. Don't deny yourself the natural stimulation this rich food offers you.

Get Quaker Oats today. Grocers have two kinds: Quick Quaker, which cooks in 3 to 5 minutes, and Quaker Oats.

When you visit this extravaganza of a court house I warn you do not depart until you have tiptoed to the shabby dark little storeroom and have gazed with awe upon "the chair." It is the chair, designed for the judge, that no judge has ever had the temerity, boldness, crust or foolishness to sit in.

That chair is handcarved with flourish. It has gargoyles and lions' heads and symbolic figures of Lilliputian Goddesses of Justice, now broken. It is an amazing thing, throne-like.

The uncomfortable seat is so broad that two tall men might perch in it untouchingly. Its high back perpendicular above bulbous legs with claw feet. For nearly sixty years jurists who have come to hold court among all the royal fussiness of this court house of splendor have backed away from this final inspired touch of comedy.

And so the old chair, its tapestries once gloriously crimson, its nailheads once shining brass; rots amid dust and mildew. It cost, they told me, $1700.

There is no humor, no comedy at all in the 100 houses standing vacant in Carlinville. They are all rather newly built, good houses, well painted. There's nothing of the shack about them. They sit in orderly rows in a subdivision not long built up. You can rent one of them very cheap. It happened like this:

There is a thick seam of good coal under Carlinville, about 316 feet from the surface. It runs from seven to eight feet of mineable coal. A large oil company, one of the biggest, running a string of refineries, bought a big acreage of this coal. We went out to one of the mines—standing idle. The investment at this mine, I was told, is more than $4,000,000. The mine ran for a time. It easily put out its 8,900 tons a day. Capacity I was informed, might be 12,000.

Why shut down, I asked. Why all the homes of workmen empty? Why this investment standing idle? They smiled and told me that it was because the miners demanded so much money that the oil company could buy coal in other states cheaper than it could produce it.

Why burn its own coal when other coal could be bought for less than the coal it owned could be brought to the mine-mouth? That seemed the answer. Wages so high that wages ceased, and there was no argument.

Basically Macoupin is agricultural. It is the lower edge of the primary corn belt. Yields of from fifty to eighty bushels of corn to the acre are common. Wheat does well, often forty to forty-five bushels to the acre. Legumes are growing in favor and some farmers are liming their soil. The farm bureau has done that. Macoupin county ranks among the foremost counties of the state in poultry production. Commercial orcharding is making strides.

The Macoupin county farm bureau has held a large number of what are called "farm lawn" meetings. These bring out sometimes as many as 500 people. Interesting programs, motion pictures and refreshments add to the interest. Two primary thoughts center around these meetings:

1—How to get more money out of the soil.
2—How to put more fertility into it.

Carlinville also has a clay products plant, chief output brick and tile. I said in the beginning Carlinville seems prosperous and has its head up in spite of the 100 empty houses. It looks upon the houses as an asset. It has them. Surely something will come along to fill the void. Some new industry, perhaps.

It has something to offer, Carlinville people tell me, houses and labor. Carlinville has learned to smile when it is "shooting in the rough." Take the case of the $1,300,000 court house.

A thought strikes me: "What heroes and pathmaker might those gay spenders of '67 have been if, somehow by some magic, they could have used that money for concrete roads instead of a royal gingerbread courthouse!"

(This is the sixty-third of a series of articles written for the Illinois Chamber of Commerce entitled "Re-discovering Illinois." Their purpose is to benefit, build, and develop Illinois as a whole. The next will be published soon.)

"Judy, Judy, I don't understand you," said Mamie Riley. "I never knew a girl to say such things before."

"Perhaps not. But even you, my dear have thought them, except you were tempted to give everything you had for love. You told me yourself that you were sorry that you had ever left Buddy Tremaine."

"Yes I know," said Mamie, "but I have found out that I didn't mean it after all. I could not accept anything, even from Buddy, except in the way in which he has just given it to me. I couldn't even borrow all that money from him if he were going to stay in Chicago."

"It's a terrible thing for men to have so much money, Mamie, to do with as they please. I'll wager Mr. Robinson does not think that he is a wicked man, notwithstanding he is really a menace to society with his wealth and power."

"Don't you love the last sentence, Mamie?" I couldn't help exclaiming. "What a reformer people would call me with my 'menace to society' and 'wealth and power' nonsense! Golly I'm afraid I am getting too good; I know I am getting too serious, and because of that I am going to have some fun and a few perfectly natural thrills. Incidentally I think, also, I am going to even up a few things for Martha Cleaver."

"Dear Judy, you scare me out of my next years growth when you

FUNNY STORIES Hal Cochran's DAILY POEM

When little Willie's late to meals, and like a youngster, kinda feels that when he treads the homeward path, it's funny how he always tries to spring a lot of alibis.

He simply came home late because he didn't know what time it was. Of course he knows he is wrong, but, shucks, it's stayin' light so long that time goes flyin' right on by, and really sorta feels a guy.

When pop is late, it's just the talk this way," exclaimed Mamie.

"What are you going to do, and how are you going to do it?" "Well I'll tell you what I am going to do. I am going to get that fifty thousand dollars for Joan. Just how I am going to get it, I don't know at the present moment. But I know that it is lying around loose in some bank and I know it belongs to Joan and she has got to have it. I've got to get it out for her before the bank closes this afternoon."

Mamie looked at me blankly. "Fifty thousand dollars," she murmured. You speak of it as if it were fifty cents. Do you know Judy that when Buddy deposited twenty-five thousand in the bank for me and brought me the bank book and I saw it written at the top of the page I was so scared that my knees trembled and that is only half of what you are going to get from someone in the next few hours."

"Twenty-five thousand dollars," I read it over in the little book with my name on it and thought, 'why that is a fortune. More than my father and my mother earned in all their lives.' Judy for a little while it didn't seem possible that there was so much money in the world. I almost had an irresistible desire to go down to the bank and have the cashier pass it out to me in yellow-backed bills.

"I am not used to it yet. I open that little book many times a day and look at those two words at the top of the page: 'May 7, 1926—$25,000.00' and I wonder if those are really magic words and if I can write a check and have all the money turned over to me."

CHAMPION SHOWS FIGHTING HEART IN WINNING CUP

New Note is Heard in the Praise for Bobbie
Jones, Premier

New York, July 13—(AP)—In the chorus of praise for Bobby Jones there appeared a new note today. Long recognized as the master stylist with wood and iron, the winner of the two blue ribbons of the golf links this year was hailed as a man of steel, a fighter against heavy odds.

Arriving from Europe, worn by the rigors of a siege to which he won the British open title, Bobby admitted he was tired and asserted he would go to the American open championship at Columbus to "have some fun".

There was a lot of fun at the Scioto Country Club. Everybody, including Bobby, was having a good time. It was all in fun until that second day with a 79, the worst round he had known in championship play. Jones' smile vanished; the fun went out of the thing. A new Bobby appeared on the links Saturday.

Show of Fighting Heart

Starting the final nine there was another player four strokes ahead, a lead that seemed insurmountable, for a 35 going home was necessary for Bobby to win. Bobby knew what he had to do and for the first time made known to the golfing world that he had the "fighting heart", the dogged will of the seemingly beaten man to give battle.

There came the last hole a par five. Par would tie a birdie would win. A terrific belt for 300 yards came from the Jones driver. The next shot would decide. Bobby selected a mashie iron for the 180 yard lift to the green. That shot sped on a line for the flag and reached home. He narrowly missed his first putt for an eagle three, but the second went down for a 293 and victory by one stroke over Joe Turnesa.

"For the first time in my golfing life, I am satisfied with this round of golf," Bobby said, having in mind his necessary one under par for the last nine holes against a strong wind.

Flashes of Life

New York—There should be some romantic love sets at various coming tennis tournaments. L. A. Godfree and his bride, the former Kitty McKane, are coming from England, perhaps they will encounter Alfred H. Chapin, Jr., and his bride, the former Charlotte Hosmer, who have been winning consistently at singles and doubles.

Los Angeles—"The Winning of Barbara Worth" is a novel by Harold Bell Wright, but the title might be used just now for an event in real and reel life. Barbara Worth, screen star, is to marry Lamar Lantz, movie publisher.

North Hempstead, N. Y.—Mrs. Vincent Astor and other wealthy summer residents of Long Island have been perturbed over bathing parties of motorists who sometimes have worn less than the girls do in the shows to which Flo Ziegfeld objects. The county authorities have acted on the matter to the extent of seeing if the town needs help for its police.

Atlantic City—There are 15 unusually hungry chorus girls here. Their show closed, the theater was locked on them and no salaries were forthcoming. They protested so vigorously at the stage door that the police were summoned.

Des Moines—Business women know how to dress well. The Federation of National Business and Professional Women's Clubs is in convention and the hotel lobbies are regular peacock alleys.

DIXON COUNTRY CLUB GOLFERS TO CLINTON TO PRACTICE ON COURSE FOR WEEK'S TOURNEY

Lincoln Highway Yearly Tournament to Start Tomorrow

The team of eight golfers who will represent the Dixon Country Club in the annual Lincoln Highway Golf association which opens at Clinton, Ia., tomorrow, motored to that city this afternoon to acquaint themselves with the course. The team is composed of the following golfers who completed their qualifying round yesterday: Wilson Dysart, E. B. Raymond, Harry A. Roe, Thomas Stokes, Oliver M. Rogers, Don Raymond, Oliver Rogers, Jr. and Edward Vaile. The tournament opens tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock at the Clinton Country Club course and each club will play 72 holes 36 each day, 18 holes morning and afternoon. Wednesday evening the annual association banquet will be held at the club house and each contesting club has been invited to furnish a stunt which will complete a program following the banquet.

Caddies in Play
Junior Joyce and Harold Marks, caddies at the Dixon Country Club course, went to Rock Island early this morning where they are entered in the annual Junior Golfers' invitation tournament sponsored by the Rock Island Arsenal golf club. The tournament formally opened this morning when the qualifying round was played.

Clinton, Ia.—Preparations are now complete for the fifth annual Lincoln Highway golf association tournament to be held on the Clinton Country Club links Wednesday and Thursday. This is the most important golfing event ever held in Clinton and is attracting wide interest not only among the members of the country club, but among golfers of the city and surrounding territory.

The Lincoln Highway association is recognized as one of the liveliest golf associations in the middle west. It is an inter-state body, including five cities in northern Illinois and Clinton, from Iowa. Inter-club tournaments are played between the clubs comprising the association and the team tournament is held each year on a different course. Clinton has never before entertained the tournament and the directors of the local club are making a determined effort to stage the tournament in such a manner that it will be the best in the history of the organization.

Six Teams.
Clubs competing are Kishwaukee Country club of DeKalb, Edgewood Country club, Polo, Dixon Country club, Morrison Country club, Rock River Country club of Sterling and Clinton Country club. Each will be represented by an eight man team.

The tournament will be a 72 hole event. It will be match play against the bogey of the course, 36 holes of play each day. A first team prize will be given to the team the least number to bogey, a second team prize to the second team and eight individual prizes will be given to the players in the order in which they finish.

Sterling 1925 Winner
Last season Rock River Country club won the tournament and Oak of Kishwaukee won the first individual prize, being only two down to bogey on the 72 holes.

Clinton has never yet won the Lincoln Highway tournament, their best performance being in 1924 when they finished second to DeKalb. Last year Sterling won the tournament and Clinton finished in sixth place.

Hardest Course
The visiting teams are looking forward to an especially interesting tournament because Clinton has the longest, newest and most difficult course of any club in the association.

Realizing that they are playing against the stiffest bogey in the history of the association, tournament visiting clubs are striving to develop strong teams and great interest has been aroused in the tourney in every club of the association.

Fine Facilities.
Clinton has ideal facilities for entertaining the tournament and no effort is being spared to provide for the comfort and entertainment of the players and other guests. Luncheon and dinner will be served at the club both days of the tournament. Play will start promptly at 8 o'clock Wednesday morning with the 12 foursomes starting five minutes apart. Afternoon play will start at 2 o'clock, 18 holes being played each morning and the same number each afternoon.

Popular Tim Sullivan, of Dixon, who for a number of years has acted as scorer for the association as well as for the Northern Illinois golf league, will assist again this year, coming to Clinton Tuesday morning to make all preliminary arrangements in connection with the scoring of the event. "Tim" is a big favorite with the association players who feel that no tourney would be complete without Tim on hand to chalk up the results.

Banquet Wednesday.
Wednesday evening the annual business meeting of the association will be held, following a banquet given each year to visiting teams. The committee in charge of this dinner urges the entire male membership of the Clinton club to make plans to attend this dinner, regardless of whether or not they take part in the tournament. All visiting teams and members from other clubs of the association will attend. The Clinton committee desires a large attendance in order that the guests can be royally entertained. Dinner will be served at 7 o'clock.

Make Reservations.
Reservations for the dinner must be made with the steward not later than 10 o'clock a. m. Wednesday, July 14, in order that plans can be made to care for everyone. Only those making reservations prior to this time will be served.

Following the dinner the business meeting will be held at which time officers will be elected for the ensuing year. Officers for the present season are:

President—G. E. Lamb, Clinton.
Vice president—H. E. Oppold, Sterling.

Varicose Veins Reduced or Money Back, Say All Druggists

Simple Home Treatment That Is Giving Amazing Results

The world progresses. Today ailments that took weeks to cure can now be ended in a few days. If you have varicose veins or hunches you can start today to bring them back to normal size, and if you are wise you will do so.

Just get an original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil at any dispensing pharmacist and apply it night and morning to the enlarged veins. It is very powerful and penetrating, and only a little is required.

After a few days' treatment the veins will begin to grow smaller and regular use will soon reduce to normal.

Moone's Emerald Oil is also a marvelous healing agent. On application for instance stops the itching of eczema, and a few applications cause the eruptions to dry up, scale off and completely disappear. It is equally as effective in barber's itch, salt rheum, redness and inflammatory skin trouble.

People who want to reduce varicose veins or get rid of eczema, ulcers, or piles in a few days should not hesitate to get a bottle at once. It is so powerful that a small bottle lasts a long time. Any pharmacy can supply you. All druggists sell lots of it. Adv.

Secretary-treasurer—C. A. Armstrong, Clinton.

Vadalbi Lost Tough Match to Stecher in St. Louis

Dixon wrestling fans will get a first glimpse of Oreste Vadalbi, the Italian champion, when he meets Big Bill Martin at the Rosbrook hall Tuesday night, July 26, at 8:30. The promoter, Adamo Fazzi, is preparing to handle a large crowd for the first appearance of the Italian champion. Vadalbi's sensational rise to near championship heights through his conquests of Jimmy London, Dick Daviacourt, Dan Koloff, George Kotsomares and other champions during the past few months has made the coming duel the most important event of its kind local fans have had an opportunity to witness.

How well Vadalbi has succeeded in his rise towards the honors of being the world's champion, was shown in his recent match with Joe Stecher, who is now champion of the world. The match was one of the largest in the history of St. Louis, being held at the coliseum of that city. The crowd was in high pitch from the time the Nebraska Tiger and the Italian stepped in the ring. Stecher won the first fall after a grueling contest lasting one hour and forty-seven minutes. Both men came back strong and Vadalbi succeeded in gaining the second fall in thirteen minutes with a flying mare. The last fall was a technical fall given to Stecher when Vadalbi had an accident wrenching his knee so severely that he was unable to finish the match.

The semi-final will be a match that will cause considerable interest, both men having many friends and followers in Dixon. Billie Edwards, a light-heavy from Sterling will grapple with Lloyd Bellows of Polo. Both men will be in good shape for the match as they are trained to prime physical condition. Having just returned from the western part of the state where they were engaged in several matches. A good fast match can be expected as the two light-weights meet in the preliminaries.

WAIVERS ASKED ON TEN ROBINS MANAGER SAYS

And No Other Team in the League Wants Any of the "Ancients"

Ten players on the Brooklyn team of the National League are not wanted by other clubs of the circuit and will not be wanted by Brooklyn unless their playing improves immediately. This announcement was made recently by Manager Robinson and the "reading of the riot act" remained a secret for a couple of days. Yesterday it became the property of the public prints and there was a noticeable change in the Brooklyn brand of ball for they defeated the Cubs 5-0. Dazzy Vance started the game against the Cubs, yesterday, striking out five and allowing five hits before his right arm was injured by a drive from Schriebers' bat in the fifth. He retired in favor of Erhardt, then and may be out of the game for some days.

Pirates Stop Giants.
The Giants were stopped by the Pirates 6-3, after they had taken four straight games from Cincinnati. Jack Scott was subjected to heavy fire in the sixth, when the worlds champions scored four times while the Giants were able to reach Aldridge only in the late inning.

Heavy hitting in the early frames gave Cincinnati a 7-5 margin over Philadelphia although Rixey tied in the eighth when Grimes, Nixon and Henline doubled in succession.

The Braves beat the Cardinals 8-6. Jim Bottomley's circuit drive placed him in a tie with Hack Wilson of Chicago for league leadership.

George Uble, big Cleveland right hander, beat the Yanks for the second time in the series and won the

Coolidge Had Great Day With His Hook and Line

Paul Smith's, N. Y., July 13—(AP)—President Coolidge today had an impressive record as a fisherman. Five brook trout and two pike were to his credit after a strenuous day with rod and reel on the waters of Osageo Lake and Fondsy pond.

For about two hours the little craft bobbed about on the pond 12 miles from the camp while the President happily bated his own hook with worms and took off his own trout. The other members of the party brought in nine, the average size being about three quarters of a pound. The catch went home to White Pine Camp, the summer White House, where it joined the six pound pike Mr. Coolidge caught yesterday.

The President today was awaiting Gov. Smith's reply to an inquiry as to whether the Governor could visit the summer White House on Friday. Mr. and Mrs. Smith have been invited to lunch at the camp on that day, previous engagements having prevented the Governor from accepting M. Coolidge's suggestion of Monday, Tuesday or Wednesday of this week as a date for the call.

Washington and St. Louis went ten innings with the Senators on the winning end seven to six after tying the game in the ninth. Credit for the victory went to the Cuban Palmero.

The final of the White Sox Athletics series went to the Chicagoans 8-6. Johnny Mostil fielded sensationally. Collins and Daus of Detroit aided by terrific hitting from Manush and Pothergill stopped the Red Sox 5-2.

SIDELIGHTS

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Manager Robinson's threat of wholesale release of his players if they did not get out and hustle had effect. "Uncle Robbie" didn't mention any names but he said he held waivers on ten of his players.

"Sparky" Adams of the Cubs collected four of the seven hits made off of Dodger twirlers yesterday.

Vic Aldridge hished out a brand of ball to the Giants in the pinches which had them baffled.

Everett Scott, former White Sox, played his first ball game for the Cincinnati Reds and collected three hits in four times up. He also played a great game in the field with five assists and four putouts.

Eppa Rixey of the Reds got away to a flying start and eased up toward the finish. Before he could get back into his stride the Phils' bats resounded with doubts by Grimes, Nixon and Henline and a single by Huber in rapid succession. Jakey May rushed to the fray and halted the attack.

Dixie Davis of the Browns lost a tough game to the Senators in ten innings. After relieving Zachary in the seventh after two men had scored and the bases filled he checked the rally.

His teammates put him out in front in the next frame but the Senators came back in the ninth and tied the count again. After disposing of two Senators in the tenth the Griffins pushed over the deciding marker, giving Davis his second defeat in the series.

Bib Falk led the attack for the White Sox in defeating the Athletics. Bib had four hits including a double and a homer.

Second Title Bout for Chicago Planned

Chicago, July 13—(AP)—Negotiations for a bantamweight championship bout at Cubs ball park in August between titleholder Charlie (Phil) Rosenberg and Bud Taylor of Terre Haute have been completed and the managers expect to be here and sign contracts Friday or Saturday. Mulen's offer to Rosenberg is understood to be $45,000.

The contract will be for ten rounds to a referee's decision and the second title fight since the recent revival of legalized boxing in Illinois. The first saw the transfer of the lightweight championship from the veteran Rocky Kansas to Sammy Mandell ten days ago.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Taking part in the celebration of the 150th anniversary of American Independence, Gerald B. Stackpole, of Dixon, Ill., is a member of the 20th Company of U. S. Marines on duty here in connection with the Sesqui-Centennial Exposition. He will probably remain until next December when the exposition is scheduled to close.

Three picked companies of Marines were selected for duty at the Sesqui. The 20th and 16th Companies are quartered in the navy yard adjoining the exposition grounds. The 43rd Company is encamped inside the grounds. The three companies are taking part in the spectacular parades and ceremonies which have been held frequently since their arrival here.

Gerald is 24 years old, was born in Dixon, and is a son of Mrs. D. Stackpole, of that city. He joined the Marine Corps at Chicago. He was stationed at Quantico, Va., when his company was chosen to attend the Sesqui. The three companies are a part of the famous Fifth Regiment of Marines which won high honors in France during the war.

A reproduction of old Tun Tavern, where the first marines were recruited in Philadelphia more than 160 years ago, has been erected on the grounds. Inside the tavern, large paintings, depicting the history of the Marine Corps, and other exhibits of historical interest are on display.

That the prompt payment of principal and interest of Forman Bonds will be unconditionally guaranteed, at the option of the investor, by a leading insurance company, is a tribute to the sound conservatism which has governed this institution for more than forty years.

It is only because the Forman Plan of safeguards has proved so highly effective over such a long period of years that an independent insurance company will place its straight-forward unconditional guarantee upon every Forman Bond.

S-51 In Dry Dock at Last

An epic of the sea, mariners term the salvaging of the U. S. submarine S-51, which sank off Block Island, R. I., last fall, carrying all but three of the crew to death. It grounded on Man of War Rock, East River, New York, while being towed to the Brooklyn Navy Yard, and 11 hours of heartbreaking effort were required to get it off. Photo shows it in dry dock, supported by pontoons, the half-masted flag on the conning tower, with the dock crew ready to drain the water and open the ship to examination.

SUMMER COTTAGE

Hal Cochran's DAILY POEM

'Twas a mighty classy cottage that we picked out, on the lake, so we packed the car and drove there in a day. It's a job to pack the dock of things ya always have ta take, but I guess vacation's always been that way.

Course we had no running water, an' the oil stove smoked a lot, but a man can locate water, if he tries, and, who wants ta burn an oil stove when the weather's bloom'n' hot. Chasin' water, so they say's good exercises.

All the silverware was rusty, and the table linen torn, an' the dishes in the cabinet full of smudge. From the wear and tear of many years, the carpet looked forlorn, and the windows in the cottage wouldn't budge. Upstairs rooms were like an oven, and the beds were hard as lead, and with every inconvenience were we blest. When we got there, we felt peppy; when we left there—almost dead. What a wondrous place to get a dern good rest.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

JOHN and FAY MILBURN buy a home when their baby girl is born and the advertising agency in which John is partner and copy writer lands a new contract. Among their acquaintances are:

NOEL and VERA BOYD, whose marriage is strictly "modern."
PAT and MARIAN FORBES, who have three children and whose domestic life is unhappy because of Pat's roving tendencies. Previous chapters told how:John was fascinated on meeting NELL ORME, of whom Forbes hints that she is having trouble with her husband.
Fay took JUDITH, the baby, to visit her parents in Washington, and during her absence John "ran around" a go. I deal. When Fay returned, gossip had related some of his actions and sharp quarrels followed, one of which drove him "out on a tear." Fay, learning he had been out with other women again, threatened to leave if it was repeated.

John finds that people are talking about him, and NAT GRAHAM, his partner, charges his actions are damaging the firm's reputation. John later, by accident, meets Nell Orme at Vera Boyd's. He resolves not to go there again, realizing she is carrying him off his feet, but he does, and the day comes when he takes her madly in his arms.

Fay, learning of it, leaves, and takes the baby with her. John closes the house and takes an apartment. Later he hits HENRY BLODGETT, a banker, who had made a slighting reference about him. John is arrested for assault and battery and is defended by PAUL DAVIDSON, lawyer friend. He is acquitted.

NAT GRAHAM leaves on a vacation and John is nearly crazy with work, so that when Vera Boyd again calls him up with an invitation to get her, knowing Nell Orme will be there, accepts.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY (The scenes and situations in this story are fictitious.) CHAPTER I VERA was all curiosity when she met John Milburn at her door. She was "just dying" to know whether it was really true that Fay had left him.

He said, rather sulkily, that he'd prefer not saying too much about it, that Fay, after all, was the one who ought to do the talking. But Vera—strange creature—was quite unabashed.

"You're so old-fashioned, really, with your notions about chivalry. John, come, I'm simply crazy for some scandal!"

He smiled faintly. "Really, Vera, it's hard for me to understand you." He glanced curiously around the room.

"Looking for Nell?" Vera smiled. "She'll be here soon."

He was half angry with her for saying that. It made him out such a crass philanderer. He told her that he really had no business coming and then asked her, quite frankly, "Do you really get a kick, Vera, out of seeing people do what they shouldn't?"

Vera sank gracefully into a chair and regarded him through half-closed eyes. With her black hair, parted in the middle and drawn flat against her little head, she made an exotic picture, John thought. He was forced to confess that, in her way, Vera was really beautiful. Why, then, had he not seen an attraction in her, especially as he knew that Vera had been and still was, very likely, quite keen about him?

"Are you listening to me?" she was saying. "Oh? Oh, yes."

At the end of the hall was the nursery, and through its west window he caught sight of the descending orange sun. He felt suddenly forlorn; the day was done—just like his own happiness. He turned quickly away from the window and his foot stepped on something soft that emitted a faint squeak. He was startled, and looked down to see what it was. And then he was over some with such a vast feeling of loneliness that a great sob escaped him. The thing was Judith's rubber doll. How well he remembered the day he had bought it for her! And how indifferent she had been to it at first, but later how much pleasure it had given her!

"Judith!" he cried. "Judith! Fay!" This terrible feeling was simply more than he could endure, and his eyes, as he gazed at the little toy, were wet.

With a great effort he pulled himself together and thrust the doll in his pocket. He would have to send it home to her, he decided—but on second thought he told himself no, he'd keep it for himself.

He closed the front door gently. What a terrible place this house had become, he was thinking as his feet plodded wearily down the front walk. Just across the street was the home of the Blodgetts, of hateful memory and were his eyes deceiving him or was this really Mrs. Blodgett who had turned the corner and was swiftly approaching? Yes, it was she, and he saw her suddenly come to a stop, tilt her head indignantly at sight of him and then march briskly up the steps to her front door.

The next day at the office he thought he detected some uneasiness in Miss Knisely's actions. The stenographer and girl of all work several times seemed to be on the point of saying something to him, but each time she hesitated, and the feeling grew on him that she had something on her mind.

He was not long in doubt about it. At the close of the day Miss Knisely, in a small, timid voice, told him she was resigning. The announcement caught him completely by surprise; he had never even imagined such a thing. Why, what would he do—especially with Nat Graham away?

"What's the trouble?" he asked. "Want more money?"

But it wasn't that, she told him. She thought she needed a rest. "You'll give us two weeks' notice—until we can break someone else in?" She'd be glad to do that, she told him.

John asked several more questions. Was the work too hard for her? Did she think she needed some assistance? If she did, he'd be glad to take it up with Mr. Graham and see what could be done. He wanted to be perfectly fair with her.

But the effect of all this was to embarrass Miss Knisely still more. No, she was not overworked. She merely thought she'd quit.

"Well," he said with a sigh, "I'm sorry. Hope you'll think it over and change your mind. I might as well be frank and tell you that competent secretaries are really hard to find."

And then one day later in the week Miss Knisely telephoned to say that she was sick and was unable to get down. The day Nat Graham came back he learned, through Briggs, that she had gone to work for Kelly and Jones.

"Well, can you beat that?" he complained bitterly to Graham. "Why? n't she say that they had offered her more money? We could have met it. It sounds to me like downright disloyalty. I had thought she was to be trusted completely."

Graham frowned, and, staring at the pencil in his fingers, said something vague about "not blaming her." Everywhere he went, it seemed, people were talking about Graham & Milburn and seemed to think they were going on the rocks.

It was like reopening an old wound. John, feeling bitter anger stirring again, was able to control himself and stare at his partner coldly and silently.

Another thing, Graham went on, another one of their important accounts seemed to be slipping. Somewhere, somehow, the firm had got a black eye.

And then John's anger flared. "Let 'em slip!" he cried, and when Graham shrugged his shoulders and turned sulkily away, he flung after him, "Our clients get service, don't they?"

That was true, Nat admitted; nevertheless, it was not to be wondered at that people began to lose confidence in a business organization that was being eternally gossiped about.

"My fault again, eh?" John said irritably. "Everyone," Nat said doggedly, "seems to know that your wife is going to divorce you."

Milburn was silent for a minute or two. Finally, "Look here, Nat," he said, "does it strike you that it's anybody else's business but my own and Fay's? This agency is paid to take care of other people's advertising. We don't pay them to take care of our lives for us. Now then, what are you going to do about replacing Miss Knisely?"

But Graham, an impatient exclamation escaping him, turned abruptly away and walked out of the room.

But it wasn't that, she told him. She thought she needed a rest. "You'll give us two weeks' notice—until we can break someone else in?" She'd be glad to do that, she told him.

John asked several more questions. Was the work too hard for her? Did she think she needed some assistance? If she did, he'd be glad to take it up with Mr. Graham and see what could be done. He wanted to be perfectly fair with her.

But the effect of all this was to embarrass Miss Knisely still more. No, she was not overworked. She merely thought she'd quit.

"Well," he said with a sigh, "I'm sorry. Hope you'll think it over and change your mind. I might as well be frank and tell you that competent secretaries are really hard to find."

And then one day later in the week Miss Knisely telephoned to say that she was sick and was unable to get down. The day Nat Graham came back he learned, through Briggs, that she had gone to work for Kelly and Jones.

"Well, can you beat that?" he complained bitterly to Graham. "Why? n't she say that they had offered her more money? We could have met it. It sounds to me like downright disloyalty. I had thought she was to be trusted completely."

Graham frowned, and, staring at the pencil in his fingers, said something vague about "not blaming her." Everywhere he went, it seemed, people were talking about Graham & Milburn and seemed to think they were going on the rocks.

It was like reopening an old wound. John, feeling bitter anger stirring again, was able to control himself and stare at his partner coldly and silently.

Another thing, Graham went on, another one of their important accounts seemed to be slipping. Somewhere, somehow, the firm had got a black eye.

And then John's anger flared. "Let 'em slip!" he cried, and when Graham shrugged his shoulders and turned sulkily away, he flung after him, "Our clients get service, don't they?"

That was true, Nat admitted; nevertheless, it was not to be wondered at that people began to lose confidence in a business organization that was being eternally gossiped about.

Milburn was silent for a minute or two. Finally, "Look here, Nat," he said, "does it strike you that it's anybody else's business but my own and Fay's? This agency is paid to take care of other people's advertising. We don't pay them to take care of our lives for us. Now then, what are you going to do about replacing Miss Knisely?"

But Graham, an impatient exclamation escaping him, turned abruptly away and walked out of the room.

become, he was thinking as his feet plodded wearily down the front walk. Just across the street was the home of the Blodgetts, of hateful memory and were his eyes deceiving him or was this really Mrs. Blodgett who had turned the corner and was swiftly approaching? Yes, it was she, and he saw her suddenly come to a stop, tilt her head indignantly at sight of him and then march briskly up the steps to her front door.

Good Thoughts for Good People

Peace I leave with you, my peace I give unto you: not as the world giveth, give I unto you. Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid.
—John

People are always expecting to get peace in heaven; but you know whatever peace they get there will be readymade. Whatever of making peace they can be blessed for must be on the earth here.
—Ruskin

There is but one certain way to secure world peace: That is the will to peace.
—Josephus Daniels

Liberty is not a usurper; it is not a pretender; it is something which is one of the most vital ingredients in human progress. Material prosperity can never make up for the loss of it

—Lloyd George

No true and experienced soldier wants war.
—Gen. Hugh A. Drum

Each one of us may engage in the establishment of world peace. Whenever and wherever hate is overcome with love, by that much has friction been eliminated, and we have advanced toward the spiritual condition where brotherly love continues, and where peace abides. Everyone who knows the truth becomes a peacemaker and Jesus declared, "Blessed are the peacemakers: for they shall be called the children of God."
—The Christian Science Monitor
